

the people of the State, I cannot help but believe he will take a stand against the Senatorial selection of Mr. Sheehan."

This committee, on which Mr. Mott is chairman, has been organized by the chairman, Thomas M. Osborne, Gov. Dix's former, Fish and Game Commissioner, a statement putting the responsibility squarely upon the Governor.

Murphy Not the Party.
It is learned that Commissioner Osborne had a long conference with the Governor before the statement was given out. The committee declares that Mr. Murphy does not speak for the whole State "in spite of Republican predictions," and that he has made his announcement without consultation with the heads of the party. "The Democratic Governor of New York."

There is light in every line of the Osborne statement, and it ends with a warning that if Murphy persists in naming Sheehan he can expect a fight. The statement is made on good authority today. If Governor Dix stands by Thomas M. Osborne, William Church Osborne and other members of his Cabinet who are leading the fight against Sheehan, their resignations can be expected within a short time. The Sheehan committee has abandoned hope of electing Sheehan, but will go into the caucus Monday night and make a fight for him in the hope of securing a compromise which will mean the election of Sheehan. The position of this committee is set forth in the following statement:

"With reference to the statement attributed to Charles F. Murphy, to the effect that the Democratic organization in the county of New York was opposed to Mr. Sheehan for Senator, and that consequently he is eliminated as a candidate so far as New York County is concerned, the Sheehan committee has reason to believe that the statement is untrue. It is a political leader as experienced and as astute as Mr. Murphy, that this announcement was made without previous conferences with the head of his party in the State, the Democratic Governor of New York."

Carly Spoke for State.
"Though Mr. Murphy's head of his county organization and may be the best judge of the wish and determination of that body as to its rejection of a candidate for this office, recommended by the adjoining county in which the candidate resides, it could not seem that his position is one to justify such a summary and final announcement, even for his own county, of the elimination of the candidate publicly proposed and earnestly supported by the Democratic Mayor of his own city."

"The Tammany leader, powerful as he is, does not yet, despite Republican predictions, speak for the whole State. Nor is his announcement decisive of the contest."

"The County of New York, by and itself, and its representatives, are not a majority of the Democratic legislators who are to vote for Senator."

Mr. Murphy's declaration in curt disregard of the Democratic Mayor and without prior conference with the Democratic Governor may not prove acceptable to the Democratic Mayor and the Democratic legislators of the State as sound policy or proper party decorum."

"Other counties and other leaders are yet to be heard from, and it may be that they are not all as inflexible as Mr. Murphy seems to be. It is the duty of those who have not voted the Democratic ticket before the last election."

"Democrats whose regularity and constancy are beyond question are supporting Mr. Sheehan in great numbers, and they remain as imputation upon their political fidelity. It is believed that such fidelity does not require them to ignore the value of enlarging the party by attracting to it those who have not heretofore voted with it."

Look to the Future.
The policy of repelling such voters has been pursued for too many years with the result of keeping the party out of power. Its return to power has been effected and should be continued by the policy of attracting support which is offered by the candidacy of Mr. Sheehan and more than by that of any other candidate yet suggested."

"If, however, such policy of repulsion is to be adopted, it should be announced without delay and frank conference with the two principal Democrats in responsible official position, the Mayor of the City of New York and the Governor of the State of New York. That is not the policy of the Sheehan committee. He said:

"I spoke for the organization in New York County. That is the sentiment there and I cannot be called upon to state the sentiment as I have found it to exist."

As Yet Murphy has made no public statement which binds him to the endorsement of Mr. Sheehan. He has declared against Sheehan, but so far as the public is concerned has kept an open mind on all other candidates.

Has Left a Loophole.
Though he is privately committed to Sheehan, Murphy has left this loophole so that he can get into the bandwagon in case Gov. Dix should refuse to stand for Sheehan and demand the selection of a compromise candidate. Upon his arrival in Albany Murphy said:

"The district leaders in New York County are against Mr. Sheehan and for that reason I am against him. Mr. Sheehan is the kind of a man who usually votes the Republican ticket and I do not want to have him among Democrats. Those who want him for United States Senator are Republicans who sometimes vote the Democratic ticket."

State Chairman Huppert was shown the statement from Thomas M. Osborne as representative of the 8 ward committee and said it was thought it meant a break in party harmony. He replied:

"Mr. Osborne is entitled to his opinion. I have nothing to say. I will not discuss his statement."

"Are you still maintaining the attitude it hands off?"

"Yes, I am taking as easy."

At this point Assemblyman Terry of Brooklyn, an enthusiastic Sheehan man, remarked sarcastically to Chairman Huppert:

"This thing of party organization is a great relief to the members of the Legislature. We do not have to worry over the solution of important problems. They are all decided for us, and all we have to do is just draw our salary and act like rubber stamps."

Sheehan men today declare that the references of Murphy to Sheehan as "fair weather Democrat" do not come with good grace, especially as he is

FIVE BIG BLAZES KEPT THE FORCE BUSY ALL NIGHT

Three of Them in the Downtown District and the Other Two in Harlem.

22 FIREMEN ARE INJURED.

Deputy Chief Binns, Battalion Chief Daven and Capt. Tighe Among the Victims.

During the late night and early morning three downtown fires and two in Harlem caused injury to twenty-two firemen and so overworked the department that when daylight came men and horses were exhausted.

The most disastrous of these fires was at Nos. 108 and 110 Duane street, a five-story building, which was completely destroyed and water continued to burn from 11 o'clock last night until 5 o'clock this morning. When the fire was under control thirteen men had been carried to the sidewalk injured or unconscious from smoke.

Truck No. 1, in command of "Big John" Sullivan, was the first fire apparatus to arrive. The fire had started on the third floor of the building in the storeroom of the Wholesale Typewriter Company, and paper and rubber seat great volumes of smoke all through the neighborhood. Suddenly the flames shot up the elevator shafts and stairways and broke through the roof with a roar.

Thirteen Jowled Over.
A second alarm was sounded. This brought Chief Croker and the high pressure system was put in operation. Deputy Chief Binns, Capt. John Tighe of Engine No. 7, Battalion Chief John Daven, "Big John" Sullivan, Capt. Patrick Walsh, Lieut. Michael Healey, Firemen Mahan, Daly, McCabe, Allen, Henchel and Casey went to the third floor hallway door and were entering the burning room when there came an explosion, caused by a backdraft, and the thirteen men were hurled down the steps. Flames rushed out on them as the fire-dropped to the lower floor, and before they could get to their feet very much was more or less hurt.

Crocker ran to the hallway and carried out Chief Binns. The other twelve were got out by their comrades.

The explosion broke every window in the building and instantly the house was burning in every corner. The men were treated by physicians from Hudson Street Hospital and taken back to quarters. Capt. Walsh, Lieut. Healey and Firemen Hauser and Daly would not remain at quarters, hurt as they were, and they limped back to the fire.

Four Again in Peril.
Things were looking more and more dangerous when the four took a hose and climbed to the third floor fire-escape. Suddenly flames shot out at them. Walsh, Nealy and Hauser were completely prostrated this time and they were hurried to the hospital suffering from exhaustion, smoke and numerous burns.

Later Ryan of No. 22 engine and Manning of No. 1 engine fell unconscious from smoke.

This fire had done more than $100,000 worth of damage, but the firemen still were heaping water on it when an alarm was sounded at 1:45 o'clock from No. 81 Pine street, an L-shaped building of six stories which was burning furiously. The building runs back from Pine street to No. 123 Water street.

Five Men Burned.
Under Lieut. Hayes, of Truck No. 18 Firemen Zeigler, Morgan, Boyle and Quinn climbed to the second floor. The five men all were burned. Before the fire had gone far Croker, who had come down from Duane street, said the damage was $25,000 already and there would be more.

At 2 o'clock there came a third call for the engines. This time the five-story building at the northwest corner of Centre and Howard streets was burning. The fire seemed to have started on the fifth floor from defective insulation. A damage of $5,000 was done there and burning engines fell on the firemen and caused serious injuries.

The first Harlem fire was at No. 264 Third avenue when Fireman Leo Harkins of Truck No. 32 was so badly injured the doctors at Fordham Hospital say he will die. Harkins has only been married a few weeks.

At 2:45 o'clock this morning flames burst up through Nathan Sheehan's tailoring shop, on the ground floor of a five-story tenement house at No. 150 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street.

BILL HONORING PEARY APPROVED BY COMMITTEE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The Bates bill, proposing that Congress extend thanks to Capt. Robert E. Peary and reimburse him for the expenses of his expedition to Greenland, was approved today by the House Subcommittee on Naval Affairs.

conceded to be an advocate of Sheehan's selection.

Gaynor Still for Sheehan.
Mayor Gaynor said today that he is still for Edward M. Sheehan for United States Senator. He said he had nothing to add to the letter he had written to Senator Loomis, but believed that Charles F. Murphy was still for Sheehan.

He said Mr. Murphy had recently told him that personally he was for Sheehan, but the Tammany organization was against him.

POLICE SEARCH FOR KIDNAPERS AS SLAYERS OF BOY

a few flakes of snow and as the only snowfall we have had this week was Tuesday morning, it must follow that the crime was committed Monday night some time.

"There is not a child answering the description of the murdered boy missing from Albany or any of the nearby towns. We have telegraphed to every city in the country giving a description of the boy and hope to get some clue to his identity."

The body badly frozen was found in a bleak swamp about one thousand feet south of Schenectady Turnpike, about noon yesterday.

The body was found by Harry Sprackland, who was hunting rabbits and had just entered the swamp. The boy lay on his back with one arm outstretched, and with the head turned away, as if trying to avoid having something forced in his mouth. The bottle of acid was found under the body, and a few feet away the bag of chocolates was discovered.

The face of the child was burned in a horrible manner by the acid. The body was blackened. Red burns seared both cheeks. About the neck and arms, no marks of violence have as yet been found on the body.

Of Well-to-Do Parents.
The boy was evidently of good parentage, for his body was well formed and the skin as soft and white as satin. The features were uncommonly regular and the hands and feet showed good care. His face was chubby and the hair was blond and curly. The entire appearance would denote that he was the child of refined and well-to-do parents. His clothing was good. He wore a sailor suit of white and heavy black ribbed stockings. A blue silk Windsor tie was around the neck under the sailor collar, but was untied, and heavy white gloves buttoned up the sleeves. The shoes, coat and hat and all clothing which would probably contain marks of any kind had been removed. An emblem was embroidered on the front of the blouse, but it was evidently machine made, and the suit could have been purchased in any clothing store.

These facts lead to the theory of kidnapping, and Chief of Police Hyatt believes that the boy was slain while the kidnapers were being pursued by the police. He could not be a witness against them.

To the left and in front of the swamp where the body was found, is a ploughed field, and patches of snow covered the dead grass of the swamp in places. The slayer was evidently afraid of leaving a trail, and the ploughed field was the only place where no footprints were visible in the soft earth of the ploughed field.

Children living in the vicinity told today of seeing a pale, emaciated boy, who was running near the place where the body was found, but these had disappeared. The swamp will be searched again by the police in the hope that the coat or hat may be found somewhere in the grass or underbrush.

LIEUT. LAKE TRIED.
Police Commissioner Reserves His Decision.

Commissioner Conroy reserved decision today in the case of Police Lieutenant John Lake of Harbor Precinct 1, who was tried before him.

On New Year's Eve, when Deputy Commissioner Discol and Inspector Schmittenger dropped into the station house at Pier A, North River, they found the lieutenant, his cap, coat and shoes off, reclining on a table in a back room. Lake explained that he was not well, but did not want to report "sick." Lawless, Michael L. Brown, his counsel, dwelt on his client's record of twenty-three years on the force.

TAMMANY FEARS GAYNOR MAY BREAK WITH MURPHY.

With five important and lucrative appointments at his disposal and his ability to remove men now holding office, Tammany circles are disturbed over the possible attitude of Mayor Gaynor, following Charles F. Murphy's open declaration against Edward M. Sheehan.

The Mayor is on the point of naming a successor to John A. Bessel as President of the Board of Water Supply at a salary of $12,000 a year and four Commissioners of Elections, each drawing $5,000 annually. Politicians look for a break between the Mayor and the leader of Tammany which may result in the Mayor's refusal to appoint a Tammany man to office, as well as effect many removals of Tammany men.

POISONED BABY DIES AS PARENTS WAIT FOR DOCTOR

Nurse Administers Lysol by Mistake to Child Born Eight Days Ago.

GOT WRONG BOTTLE.

Groped in Dark for Soothing Syrup, but Found Another Bottle.

Mrs. Rose Bellak, who has been nursing the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Enna of No. 230 Linden street, Brooklyn, since it was born eight days ago, was aroused from slumber at 2 o'clock this morning by the baby's cries. Groping about in the dark for a bottle of soothing mixture which stood on a table, she found another bottle and administered a spoonful of its contents.

The baby was thrown into convulsions, and Mr. Enna telephoned for an ambulance from the Bushwick Avenue Hospital. When Dr. Janey arrived, however, the parents decided that they would wait for their family physician, to whom they had telephoned in Manhattan, and refused to permit the child to be taken to the hospital.

Dr. Edward Gershowitz of No. 42 Henry street, Manhattan, arrived at 4 o'clock and found the child dead. The nurse had given him a dose of Lysol, which Mrs. Enna had used for disinfecting purposes.

The police were notified and Mrs. Bellak was found at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Janet A. Bellak, who is fifty years old, wept as she told Magistrate Gelman that she had made a mistake. She was paroled to await the action of the Coroner.

BEATS THE DEVIL OUT OF HER, SAYS BRIDE OF PARSON

"I'd Better Be Examined for Sanity," Young Clergyman Suggests to Magistrate.

The Rev. Leon Tels, a young clergyman of No. 2121 Nostrand avenue, Brooklyn, summoned his bride of seven months to the Gates Avenue Court today and complained to Magistrate Hyman that she would not live with him.

When Mrs. Tels was called upon to explain she said:

"Your Honor, he continually beats me. Not because he is angry, but because, he says, I have devils. He beats me, he says, to beat the devils out of me. I stood it as long as could, but if I had stood it much longer there wouldn't be anything left of me."

Mrs. Elvina Stein, who rented half of her house to the young couple, testified that she had frequently heard Tels beating his wife.

"Time and again," said Mrs. Stein, "my husband and I had to go up and interfere. What we did he told us that he was beating the devils out of his wife. He declared that she was full of devils and that that was the only way to get them out."

"How about this?" Magistrate Hyman asked Tels.

The young man hesitated a moment, then said:

"Judge, I think I had better be examined."

"Good idea," agreed the Court. "If I were you I'd go right down to the Kings County Hospital and find out what is the matter. I will not commit you, but I request that you and your wife report to me on Jan. 20."

Tels promised to go to the hospital and interfere. The husband had been disposed of, that she and her husband had been married seven months ago in Plymouth, Ind. The husband had been ordained in the Methodist ministry, but had no charge at the time of his marriage. Shortly afterward they moved to Brooklyn.

TITLES APLENTY ARRIVE HERE ON LATER ADRIATIC

Prince Paul Troubetzkoy, Among Number, Has Art Ware to Sell.

There were many members of the European nobility about the White Star liner Adriatic, which got in today from Southampton and Cherbourg. Among them were Prince Paul Troubetzkoy, brother of that other Prince Troubetzkoy, who married Annele Rives.

Prince Paul is a sculptor and brought over with him seventy pieces of art, which will be placed on exhibition in the Hispanic Museum, Broadway and One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street. The Prince will sell some pieces if he can find any buyers appreciative of the value of his art.

Other passengers on the Adriatic who were weighed in by the customs officers were the Marquis of Salisbury, son of the late Premier Salisbury, the Marquess of Salisbury, the Marquis' son, Countess of Salisbury, the Marquis' daughter, Lady Beatrice Cecil and Lady Mary Cecil, the Marquis' sister-in-law, Lady Winifred Gore and the Marquis' mother-in-law, Dowager Countess of Arran.

GIRLS' FEET SCORCHED AS THEY ESCAPE FIRE.

Flames Shot Up Through Cracks in Floor While Gas Feeds Blaze.

Thirty girls scorched their feet in rushing to the street this morning when flames from burning stock in the basement of the building at No. 17 Victor street shot through cracks in the floor of the factory where they were working.

The fire started under the gas meter in the basement cutting-room of the kimono factory of Aref Khoury. Within a few minutes the metre had burst and the gas fed the blaze until the firemen arrived and turned it off at the street main.

Twenty families who occupy the double tenement above the factory were in a state of panic. Lieut. O'Rourke and policemen from the Greenwich street station had difficulty in restraining women and girls from jumping from the upper floors when clouds of smoke from the burning cloth filled their rooms and made the stairway impassable.

The fire was under control fifteen minutes after arrival of Chief Binks, who estimates the loss at $50.
